Note, the emphases are on the home and workplace because that's where the true development takes place, and where the majority of the stress we all suffer is generated. When you become comfortable and confident with sitting regularly in those familiar surroundings with normal everyday life all around, you heal and grow quickly.*

The true measure and success of this practice is to weave the experience of becoming more present and peaceful into your normal daily life and not believe you have to go elsewhere to procure it. You don't have to go elsewhere to procure it because you actually already have it. All I'm doing here is teaching you how to re-connect. Lesson 1 complete.*
